Imagine being a mom in the jungle of Ecuador. You earn a minimum wage of $270 per month for a regular 40 hour work week. You hope your child will one day have a different and more fulfilling life than the one you have had. You dream of a better future. You see it on TV, you see it from the tourists who come from developed cities, and you hear it through your child's frustration with a limited education. You have the option of a poor education that will lock your child in to a limited lifestyle, or you can hope for an education that will one day help your child break the cycle they have inherited. What would you do?

The only way this hope can become a reality is if that mom partners with you. She will be responsible for paying her half while you will support her with the other half. The child will receive education to prepare him/her to confront a 21st century society that looks for efficiency rather than ethnicity. You will enable a student to be exposed to the teaching and life of Christ to bring spiritual, physical, and mental freedom.

If you decide you want to be a part of this project, please contact Roberto Davalos by e-mail at servingecuador@yahoo.com and ask for information on how to become a sponsor.
